

Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Friday 03 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:

Cloudy overnight with showers spreading in later.

This Evening and Tonight:

A dry evening with occasional clearer spells. Becoming murky overnight with areas of low cloud, mist and perhaps fog forming. Occasional showers spreading in from the west later. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Saturday:

Mist and cloud clearing to leave a mixture of sunny spells and scattered showers. These will be heavy at times, with a risk of hail. Feeling chilly, with brisk winds. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:

Cloudy Sunday with brisk winds and outbreaks of rain, easing later. Bands of rain and strong winds tracking eastwards Monday and Tuesday, interspersed by dry, clear and cold nights.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.